

Dean Isabella

Lieutenant Dean Isabella has over 28 years of experience in Law Enforcement with 16 years of supervisory and leadership experience for the second largest law enforcement agency in New England. Adept in consulting with Law Enforcement and Community Organizations throughout the United States in community development and problem solving skill development, Lieutenant Isabella has a strong history of professional development, and innovation training. The Lieutenant has been recognized for his award winning problem solving strategy development, and is considered an outstanding public speaker and presenter at conferences, panel discussions, and workshops. The Lieutenant is skilled in creating an environment of professional development; team building and innovation.

Lieutenant Isabella was the first officer in country to be awarded the Department of Justice Anthony J. Sutin Civic Imagination Award and was selected as a finalist for the International Herman Goldstein Award as a result of his comprehensive problem solving strategies.

Lieutenant Isabella in conjunction with Roger Williams University, Cambridge Police Department and the Community Oriented Policing Services helped create The Teaching Police Department Program (TPDI), a comprehensive program that fosters police innovation, development and implementation (first such program in country and is being looked at as a model by the Department of Justice)

Lieutenant Isabella graduated from the Roger Williams University with a Bachelors of Science/Criminal Justice Degree and is currently attending Boston University Masters of Criminal Justice program. Lieutenant Isabella is also a graduate of Police Executive Research Forums Senior Management Institute program for Police.