

David Kiddle

Captain David Kiddle has been a member of the Grand Rapids, Michigan, Police Department since 1992, where he currently heads the Support Services Division. Over his career he has worked in Patrol, the Detective Unit, the Staff Services Bureau, and the Training Unit. He also served as a Field Training Officer. He has worked as an operations commander, as the Coordinator of Special Events and as Commander of the Internal Affairs Unit, Kiddle is a graduate of the 241st Session of the FBI National Academy, the Central Michigan University Law Enforcement Executive Leadership Institute, and Leadership Grand Rapids. He has a strong interest in the study and application of innovative leadership strategies, and he administers the Grand Rapids Police Department's very successful Leadership Institute. He is also an instructor of Ethics and First Aid/CPR.

Kiddle holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in criminal justice and a Master of Science degree in criminal justice, both from Michigan State University. He and his wife, Kimberly, have two children.